

Modern slavery and human trafficking statement

Our business and structure

Cleaver Fulton Rankin is a full service Law Firm. Our main practice areas are: company and commercial law, corporate finance, dispute resolution, property law, projects and private client services including trust administration. We are also well known for our specialist work in Northern Ireland construction law, intellectual property, employment, banking, planning and environmental law, corporate recovery, IT, charity law, cyber-risk and maritime law.

Purpose and voice

As an organisation we wholeheartedly welcome the introduction of the Modern Slavery Act 2015. This legislation is a crucially important development in tackling slavery and human trafficking and we will not trade or partner with any business or organisation which is involved in this shocking practice however remotely or indirectly.

Taking action

As part of our procurement process, we will only engage with suppliers and contractors who confirm their compliance with the Act. We will continue to keep our staff informed and raise awareness of how to recognise and respond to indicators of human rights abuses. We have adapted and re-promoted our existing corporate policies to incorporate modern slavery and human trafficking issues, including our whistleblowing policy which allows employees to report any concerns confidentially.
